HITCH-HIKER IS HELD AS CRASH
IS INVESTIGATED

Brooklyn Youth Claims
He Was Passenger
In One Of Autos

Leo Libby, aged 20, Brooklyn, N. Y., who claims to be hitch hiking to the west, is being held at the county jail, pending the investigation of an automobile crash at 11 o'clock last night, three miles east of Rochelle on the Lincoln Highway. Libby was taken in custody by State Highway Officer Frank Tyne of this city, who was enroute to DeKalb and who arrived upon the scene shortly after the crash.

Libby is reported to have run from the scene after the crash, to have thrown a loaded 38 caliber revolver into the weeds. The weapon was later recovered by the Dixon state officer. A box of high powered rifle shells was also found in the pocket of the new Oakland sedan which bore Indiana license uplate in which Libby was a passenger and which is believed to have been stolen yesterday at Hammond, State police were checking on the car in Chicago today.

The Oakland was traveling west on the highway, according to Libby, at a speed of about 70 miles per hour. The driver, who is unknown, turned out to pass another west-bound machine and crashed on into a Chevrolet sedan driven by Lowell Burg of Lincolnwood, who was returning home with his aunt, Mrs. Krambuhl. Both the occupants of the eastbound car which was practically demolished, were cut and bruised.

According to the story told by Libby, he was walking along a highway near Gary, Ind., yesterday when he was picked up in the sedan. The driver, he described as being about 26 years of age, wearing blue overalls, a blue shirt and white cap. From his version, the driver climbed out of the seat of the car immediately after the crash and started across fields away from the scene. A search for the driver was being conducted in the vicinity of DeKalb today. He is believed to have taken the loaded high powered rifle with him, leaving the box of shells in the car. Libby was brought to the county jail in Dixon where he is being detained pending a checkup by the state officers.

Labor Federation
To Enlist Hoover

Atlantic City, N. J., July 21.—(AP)—A five-day-week and six-hour-day "forced" upon industry through the pressure of public opinion expressed by President Hoover, is the American Federation of Labor's plan for relieving unemployment.

The Executive Council of the federation proposed the program yesterday through its spokesman, William Green, the Federation President, the only cure for unemployment.

"The Executive Council now demands and shall continue to demand that industrial management be compelled to act through the pressure of public opinion expressed, as we hope it will be, by the Chief Executive of the nation," the statement declared.

The council directed Green to urge President Hoover to call a conference of representatives of all industry in the United States and representatives of labor as the first step toward putting the five-day-week, six-hour-day program into operation.

The council challenged industrial management to present a better plan.

(Telegraph Special Service)

Polo, July 21.—Mrs. Mildred Snyder passed away last evening at 8 o'clock at her home on North Division street. She had been ill for several months with complications and had been bed-ridden for the past three weeks.

Emily Brand was born 72 years ago at Muldreville and was united in marriage to Milton Snyder in 1888, having made her home in Polo since that time. She is survived by her husband, one sister, Mrs. Liffie Cheesman of Milledgeville, one brother, Dr. Lester Brand of Benton, Ill., and a half-brother, Harry of Chicago. Conducted Inquest
In Death Of Child

Coroner Frank M. Barker conducted an inquest over the body of seven-year-old John Andrew Nagy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nagy, who reside east of the city on the river road, at the Jones funeral home at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Testimony presented before the jury indicated that the little fellow was playing in the water of a concrete bird bath when the bowl of the bath, which was separate, fell on him crushing him in the abdomen and causing fatal injuries. He died at the Dixon public hospital six hours later. The verdict of the jury was in accordance with the above facts.

Babson Urges
Drafting Men
Into Industry

Silver Bay, N. Y., July 21.—(AP)—Describing "all politicians high and low" as the chief beneficiaries of the "relief racket," Roger W. Babson, economist, today told members of the Silver Bay Institute that the United States today is as much on a dole as England and asserted that until public attention is focused on men instead of money "the world will continue to suffer."

"Money said Mr. Babson, 'will no more succeed in getting us out of the depression than it succeeded in keeping us out. Nor does the solution lie in building more non-productive public works, but in getting the unemployed back to their old productive jobs.'"

"Organized relief," he said, "is benefitting the politician more than the distressed unemployed. It is the biggest racket in the country and all politicians high and low are its chief beneficiaries."

Mr. Babson urged a "quota plan" for bringing business back to normal and pointed out "the real task" was to balance production and consumption so as to get everyone back to work. He said a simple remedy would be to quota the unemployed against employers and these already employed.

"This could be done," he said, "by having each community budget the number of its unemployed and quota them among corporations, partnerships, families and individuals at a wage to be fair to all parties concerned. This would be only the reverse of wartime practice—drafting men into industry instead of out of it."

WORK AT RADER
PANTRY IS NOW
WELL UNDER WAY

Goal Has Been Set At Thousand Cans Of Food Each Day

The organization of the Paul Rader Pantry at the Assembly Park hotel was rapidly nearing completion today. Albert Hayes, of Chicago, director of the Rader Pantry system, was in Dixon today and will remain for several days completing the county organization. More than 30 volunteer workers spent yesterday at the Pantry preparing 363 cans of food stuffs which consisted of donated vegetables. A total of 137 gallons of sauer kraut was prepared yesterday and this will be canned when it is cured. The Coss dairy of this city treated the workers to cold chocolate milk yesterday afternoon.

The program was delayed today on account of the early lack of foodstuff donations. The work was expected to be in full swing by the 1st of next week when it is expected that 1,000 cans of foodstuff can be prepared daily at the pantry.

Surplus farm produce throughout this section of the Rock river valley is to be gathered this summer at the Assembly park, where it will be canned to feed the needy of Lee county and Chicago. Modern equipment supplied by several manufacturers is being used in the preparation of the food. The work of installing the last of the battery of gas stoves donated by President E. D. Alexander of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company was completed this morning. Miss Marion Simons, home economics expert, is in charge of the Dixon Pantry.

Rader Announcement

The following announcement was made from the Rader headquarters in Chicago today with reference to the project:

"This group of workers in Dixon is to be one of the chief units in a nation-wide movement to be known as the Paul Rader Pantry, the purpose of which is to salvage farm produce that would otherwise go to waste and distribute it among the thousands of needy families in Chicago and Lee county, where economic conditions this winter are certain to be acute. Conditions in Chicago today are probably worse than any other large city in the country."

"Last winter we fed more than 24,000 destitute families and this winter, as a result of our canning movement, we anticipate that we shall be able to feed at least 50,000 families, as the need is expected to be that great. It is an important part of the work of the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle to provide food as well as spiritual comfort and guidance."

Fruit, vegetables, corn, wheat, meat of all kinds and every other form of farm produce will be gathered up throughout Lee county and delivered to the Dixon Assembly park hotel. A fleet of motor trucks will be utilized for this purpose and the same trucks will later transport the canned produce to Paul Rader's pantry in Chicago.

Of the first 20,000 cans put up at the local pantry, 10,000 cans will remain in Lee county to be distributed to needy families during the coming winter months.

Thunderstorms Tonight Promise Relief To the Midwest

At noon today the government thermometer at Shuck & Bates store registered 94.5 above zero. The maximum temperature yesterday was 97.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Torch-like temperatures subsided today throughout the upper Mississippi basin as the nation credited 38 more deaths to extreme summer heat.

Showers swept mercifully across the northern brow of the land, from the Rockies to the Great Lakes and on into the North Atlantic states, but southern areas still gasped in anticipation of relief promised by Friday.

Minneapolis produced an official record for Wednesday with 102 degrees but last night its citizens slept at 76 degrees.

The Dakotas and Nebraska also cooled off considerably, while showers and breezes brought much-needed relief to Texas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, seat of the worst of the current wave. The drop averaged ten degrees, but El Paso still suffered from 100-degree heat.

Deaths Distributed
Twenty-eight heat deaths were distributed widely, St. Louis reporting six, Minnesota and Illinois four each, and Pittsburgh three. Ten others died of drowning or electrocution during thunderstorms.

The weather man unqualifiedly promised temperatures "not so warm" today to most of Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas, while showers were predicted for the lower Lake region.

St. Louis thermometers read 99, Milwaukee, Louisville and Chicago 97, New York and Washington were not too warm at 87, while Pittsburgh and Detroit suffered at 92. New England weather was unseasonal. Similar reports came from the Pacific coast and the western Mountain region.

Two Months Open
Season On Ducks

Washington, July 21.—(AP)—The open season for hunting wild ducks and geese has been extended from one to two months for the coming fall by President Hoover at the recommendation of Secretary Hyde.

The lengthened season, it was said at the Department of Agriculture, is made possible by improvement in the situation which became serious for waterfowl following drought on their breeding ground in 1931.

The earliest open season in any state will be October 1, and the latest opening date, November 15, with the exception of Florida where the season will open November 20. In Alaska September will be the opening date.

The new open seasons for ducks, geese, brant and coot in Illinois, Indiana and Missouri are set as from Oct. 16 to Dec. 15.

'IKE' BARR IS FOUND DEAD IN HIS HOUSEBOAT

Well Known Riverman Died Alone
During Night

Rudolph Alexander Barr, better known as "Ike" to his many acquaintances, was found dead in his house boat on East River street at 12:30 noon today by Police Officers Richard Pomeroy and John Bohmstiel. The officers went to the boat house to investigate when it was reported to them by Zach Adams that Barr had not been seen today. Forcing the door, they discovered his lifeless body lying on the bed. A lighted lamp indicated that he had been dead for several hours and the condition of the body showed that death had probably been sudden and without a struggle. The remains were taken to the Preston mortuary.

"Ike" Barr was one of the few remaining familiar figures along Rock river in Dixon, and was known throughout this vicinity. He had been in ill health for several weeks, but appeared to be improving. He had been engaged in the buying of "slugs" from clammers during the past few weeks. For a number of years he had made his home in the house boat on East River street. Police were trying to locate a brother who resides in Peoria, believed to be the only living relative.

Coroner Frank M. Barker will conduct an inquest over the remains at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Although handicapped in having but one arm Ike was exceptionally adept at rowing, hunting, fishing, etc., accomplishing these feats with agility possessed by few men with both arms.

SNELL REFUTES
ACCUSATION OF
REP. O'CONNOR

Cites Enormous Tax Refunds Given Prominent Democrats

Washington, July 21.—(AP)—Republican Leader Snell has pondered a Democratic charge that the G. O. P. campaign is financed out of the Federal Treasury and reached this conclusion—"absurd."

Thus did the Potsdam, New York, Republican answer an accusation by a New York Democrat, Representative O'Connor, who saw a connection between the administration party's campaign chest and federal tax refunds.

"I know that any contention that the Republican-administered Treasury has financed Democratic campaign funds through tax refunds is absurd. But it is no more absurd than Mr. O'Connor's claim that by the same means it has financed Republican campaigns."

Furthermore, said the House Republican leader, several prominent Democrats have gotten personal tax refunds or returns to firms with which they were connected. Among these he listed:

Democratic Beneficiaries
Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, $46,899; Alfred E. Smith, $45,926; John J. Raskob, $5,000,000; Bernard M. Baruch, $62,225; John W. Davis, nearly $4,000,000; Pierre E. Du Pont, $283,238.

"Of course," Snell added, "I do not believe a Republican-administered Treasury, as wicked as Mr. O'Connor would have the country believe our Treasury is, would have been so politically unwise as to take public funds to furnish sinecs of war to the enemy."

Speaker Garner and Senator Dill (D. Wash.) Snell recalled, have made similar accusation which the G. O. P. leader termed "ridiculous" adding:

Those refunds in excess of $75,000 can not be made until they have been approved by a joint congressional committee of which Speaker Garner was a member for many years and of which a Democrat Representative Collier of Mississippi now is chairman."

Federal Agents
Raid At Grandy

Federal prohibition investigators from the office of Administrator A. E. Hamilton of Chicago, walked into Frank Catalina's sandwich stand on the Black Hawk Trail, State Highway route 2, at Grand Detour last evening at 6 o'clock, where a liquor raid was quickly conducted. The owner of the property, Frank Catalina, former Dixonite, and William Mundy of this city were taken in custody by the federal officers and brought to the county jail in Dixon. Later they were taken to Ottawa to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Thomas A. White.

Police records show that Mundy was arrested in Dixon, August 30, last year on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition the case having never come to trial in police court.

Allen Americans and foreigners residing in the United States sent approximately $173,000,000 in immigrant remittances back to their native lands in 1931.

MORE LENIENCY
IN CREDITS IS URGED ON BANKS

A Special Committee Of Fourth Reserve Dist.
Makes Suggestion

Cleveland, July 21.—(AP)—A new attitude of "credit leniency" by bankers toward thousands of small business enterprises, as a means of starting a general business recovery, was "urgently recommended" today by an impositing committee of bankers and industrialists.

The recommendation, coming from the Bank and Industrial committee of the Fourth Federal Reserve District, was directed to all financial institutions of the district, which embraces Ohio, western Pennsylvania, eastern Kentucky, and a part of West Virginia.

A survey among 3,000 manufacturers has disclosed, the committee said, "that there is a vast amount of productive business available, particularly to the small manufacturers within the district, if banking accommodations can be extended to finance such productive business."

Bankers Can Help
"It is our conclusion," the committee said, "that it lies within the power of the bankers to make a great and important contribution toward improvement in present business conditions."

Indicating their belief that the time has arrived when the right kind of a "push" will reverse the downward path of business, the committee said:

"If faith in the lenders and courage and resourcefulness in the borrower are brought into partnership in a new approach to their mutual problems, there will be important gains in employment in this district, important increases in commodity and material sales, and there will be important new resources available, through taxes of the community, to the support of the validity of debts and interest payments."

Production Stagnated
"In short, all the related functions of our modern life will be brought into a new and improved relationship, which may well be the beginning of the first, important step toward recovery."

Mention was made of the banker's natural desire for high liquidity particularly in times of stress, but the committee pointed out that "stagnation of production seems to have increased in step with the liquidity of banking resources," and added, "an end must be reached in the progressive increase of these two factors if we are to make any beginning of industrial recovery."

Bankers of the district were advised by the committee that the Federal System "stands ready" to rediscout for members bank eligible paper evidencing industrial, commercial or agricultural loans which from the standpoint of sound credit is acceptable.

HITS AT AGITATORS.

Chicago, July 21.—(AP)—Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard Oil of Indiana, in a message to employees and stockholders today appealed for a "firm and patriotic stand against insidious and destructive influences," believing that constructive thinking and action will hasten the recovery.

Cognizant of talk "that there never will be an economic recovery, that the country is going to the dogs," Seubert said the professional agitator thrives in such times as these but expressed loyalty of himself and the company to American government and civilization.

In protesting against the rising cost of government or demanding application in government of some of the same measures of economy to which we have been obliged to subject ourselves," he said, "we are not weakening in our loyalty."

Of the particular situation of Standard of Indiana, Seubert asserted: "As stockholders we are still able to receive some return from our investment. As employees we have had to take our reduction in pay, but it came only after nearly two years of depression developments. Some of us are on reduced time schedules for lack of sufficient work for all. Some few are, I hope temporarily only, laid off, but by and large, and in comparison with the employees of many other companies and industries, we remain one of the industrial groups least damaged by today's adversities."

$25,000 Jewel Is Sought By Police

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Long Island police were on a society jewel mystery today, searching for a lost or stolen octagonal $25,000 emerald brooch which Mrs. Payne Whitney wore to a charity fete at the Marshall Field estate in Huntington last Saturday.

Mrs. Whitney, it was learned today, missed the jewel about midnight. She told her host and hostess and private detectives and wealthy guests joined in searching the acre of grounds on which tents and booths had been set up for the fete.

Noel Scaffa, detective who has been successful in recovering many famous stolen gems, was called in to the case. There were reports that he suspected not professional thieves but rather some jewel lover who wanted the brooch for its beauty instead of its intrinsic value.

The demonstrations continued today with increasing fervor.

UNION INDIANA
MINERS HOLDING
WORKERS IN MINE

Have Been Besieged In Shaft Without Any Food 20 Hours

Dugger, Ind., July 21.—(AP)—Three companies of Indiana National Guardsmen were ordered today to the vicinity of the Hoosier coal mine, which twenty non-union workmen have refused to leave until assured protection from more than a thousand union sympathizers maintaining a picket around the shaft.

Sheriff Wesley Williams of Sullivan county was notified of the order this morning by Governor Harry G. Leslie, who said he would accompany the troops when they assemble at Shukamak State Park, about ten miles from the mine. Companies from Indianapolis, Attica and Ladoga were called.

Officials explained the move was precautionary, pointing out the men in the mine have made no attempt to come out and that the attitude of the picketers should they attempt to do so was problematical. Thus far the picketers have been orderly, according to Sheriff Williams, who said they numbered about 1,200, including miners and their wives.

20 Hours Without Food

Both Governor Leslie and Sheriff Williams indicated their major interest was to remove the miners who have been in the shaft more 20 hours without food. They said the workmen were armed and expressed fear they might become desperate if they remained in the pit much longer.

The Hoosier mine is one of several in the southern Indiana field which have been operated on a co-operative basis. The Indiana Coal Operator's Association and District 11, United Mine Workers of America failed to renew their contract when it expired March 31st.

For several months the shaft has been under protection of a Federal restraining order preventing picketers from interfering with the workers. A few days ago about 180 miners picketing a mine operating under a similar injunction were arrested and released.

No Arrests Planned

Sheriff Williams said he planned no arrests as long as the picketers remained orderly. The men on the picket line spent last night sitting under trees smoking their pipes and spinning yarns, Sheriff said, while their wives served them sandwiches and coffee solicited in nearby coal towns.

What part the troops would play was not made clear. Governor Leslie said he thought it advisable to have them in the vicinity in event an emergency should arise.

Sheriff Williams was hampered in his attempts to handle the crowd, he said, because factional beliefs on the organized labor question in Sullivan county made selection on impartial deputies difficult.

Miss Lowry Enjoys Visit In New York

The Pulaski Democrat of Pulaski, N. Y., publishes the following article of interest to relatives and many friends here, as Miss Lowry left for New York state a few weeks ago:

Miss Vivian G. Lowry, formerly of Richland and Pulaski and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott J. Lowry, now of Dixon, Illinois, arrived in Lacona, Friday evening, July 1st, to visit her brother, S. DeForest Lowry and family.

Miss Lowry was graduated from the Pulaski Academy with the class of 1925, and from the Northern Illinois State Teachers College at DeKalb, Illinois, in 1929. She has been teaching, and will return later to her work in Dixon.

Although the Lowrys have been gone from this locality for seven years they are still receiving and enjoying the Democrat. It will be remembered that Mr. Lowry owned and operated the Marshall B. Lightfarm on the Richland road, for several years.

His daughter brings greetings from the Westland to the editor and staff, and to all friends here.

SEES LIKENESS ITEM FOR COLLECTION

Mrs. H. William Baum has lived to see her likeness become an item for collectors—that is of rare coins.

For as Dennis Boscher, she posed for the figure of liberty on U. S. quarters back in 1912. These have been found not to wear well and are being withdrawn from circulation.

The Elusive Garbo Seems to Have Gone

Hollywood, Calif., July 21 —(AP)—
The elusive Greta Garbo supposedly was en route to Sweden today for a vacation from motion pictures. When, where and how she made her departure were secret, if she made it.

"I saw Miss Garbo last at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when I completed all my business with her, making it possible for her to leave," said Harry Eddington, her business manager. "I was supposed to have seen her at 9 o'clock last night but other business appointments prevented me, and an attempt to reach her by phone during the evening proved of no avail."

Miss Garbo's contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios recently expired, but it has been rumored she will sign a new one with the studios on her return from Europe.

Summer Heat May Fray Child's Nerves

Who said that children do not feel the heat?

When we want to know how children feel, the smart thing for us to do is to look back to our own childhood and try to recover the sensations we experienced then.

I for one can remember very well that I spent summer after summer in misery in spite of the fact that I had a wise mother, and my share of vacations out of town.

It was simply a matter of "me."
I wasn't built to stand the heat.
It went for my nerves and consequently my stomach, and almost as sure as torrid weather arrived
I popped into bed with a "brashy"

spell, as they used to call such up-sets and twice or thrice I had real gastritis.

So when I hear anyone say:
"Children don't feel the heat unless you talk to them about it and make a fuss yourself," I think of those past years.

Suggestion Is Potent
It is true that mental suggestion is a very powerful thing and that turning the unconscious into the conscious does not help any.

One time I rather stressed this in an article and instantly a letter arrived from an indignant gentleman who said that when people were uncomfortable and hot they knew it. Strange as it may seem very often they do not, particularly children.

If possible it is better not to discuss the terrible heat too much but to take means to make the family comfortable.

Children need sun, but in summer they do not need it between eleven and three, or approximately that. During that time they should play in the shade. On very hot days I would say that during these middle hours they were better in a cool, partially darkened room in the house. On medium days an all day sunning won't hurt them, probably, but many things must be considered. In a noisy community or in a city, unless there is a quiet yard or garden, out all day in the heat and dust and clang with the heat exaggerating every sound, small nerves wear out.

Stomachs, Too May Suffer
Why do children quarrel more then? Because a rimy, sweaty face and body combined with heat and noise are not conducive to good temper. A certain amount of real quiet is necessary for children to remain calm and tolerant.

When nerves wear out, watch the stomachs. A very little of summer will do for some children. Just so they get plenty of fresh air and a moderate amount of sun, peace and quiet are often best. It depends on what a child can stand and how he reacts to the heat. Some children thrive under it, of course, but not all, by any means.

If baby is getting cod liver oil daily and a lot of sun too, I should go immediately and ask the doctor if you are to continue the oil. As they have the same effect, the oil is very often omitted during the summer.

Hate in the sun, a rest time through the day, careful plain food and plenty of baths all help to keep up health.

Mrs. Welty Entertains Missionary Soc.

The Lutheran Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. J. L. Welty in Nachusa on Thursday, July 14th.

The lesson was led by Mrs. P. H.
Stahl. Health problems in Korea, and the advance of medicine in that country were topics considered.

Miss Anna Sanford, a missionary on furlough from India, was the guest of the afternoon. Miss Sanford gave an interesting talk on India, as she expressed it, "Just a chat with you women folks."

Following a short business meeting the hostess, Mrs. Nan Plantz, Mrs. Florence Jolly and Mrs. J. L.
Welty served seasonal refreshments.

The meeting was well attended,
including a number of guests. Mrs.
E. C. Harris of Sterling and two other ladies arrived with Miss Sanford and returned again to Sterling Thursday afternoon. An unusually fine meeting was enjoyed and the most sincere good wishes of all will go with Miss Sanford when she returns to her work in the mission schools of India.

Golden Wedding Anniversary for Barrons Celebrated Wednes.

On Wednesday evening, July 20th, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barron and daughter, Miss Cecile Barron, entertained thirty-six relatives and friends at their home in honor of the golden wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barron.

A two course dinner was served on the lawn at four large tables, graced with gladioli and sweet peas.
The last course consisted of ice cream in individual real gold cups, served with cake. The bride cut the immense gold cake.

Following the dinner, Bert Linde-man presented Mr. and Mrs. Barron with a purse of money, wishing them many future years of happy wedded life. Their son Roy, also presented them with gold pieces. At this time the following poem was read by their only granddaughter,

by Mrs. Mary Hank:

Fifty years seems a long, long while
To travel along life's way
But to Charlie and Nan, it just seems a day

Since together they started this great highway.

They have shared many sorrows
They have shared many joys Scattered along their way
But may they keep on blazing the trail.

Kept ever faithful and true
By the help of Him
Never known to fail
Our Maker, Creator and God.

The bride and bridegroom each responded with a few words of thanks.

In connection with the wedding anniversary an aunt, Mrs. Ida Hess, celebrated her birthday and was presented with a large birthday cake.

The evening was spent in social chat and reminiscences of olden days.

The guests departed at a late hour thanking Mr. and Mrs. Barron and daughter for the pleasant evening spent at their home.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Shaner of Oak Park, Ill.

LET'S KEEP POLITICS OUT.

After more than a decade of discussion, and several years of negotiations between Ottawa and Washington, the Great Lakes seaway project is at last moving toward realization.

Here is a job that will cost $800,000,000, that will permit ocean steamships to dock within hailing distance of the middle western prairies, that will generate more than 2,000,000 horsepower in electricity and that constitutes, all in all, one of the vastest projects of its kind ever undertaken anywhere.

It is a job of such size and of such importance, indeed, that the American people cannot permit it to be made into a political football.

Already it is being reported that the project will "figure in the campaign"—largely, it seems, because of the recent interchange of telegrams between President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt.

It is to be hoped that those reports are wrong. But before the politicians have a chance to drop the issue into the campaign, it might be a good stunt for the average citizen to get straight on the fundamentals of the thing.

The state of New York wants a voice in the negotiations because of the waterpower angle. The electricity generated by the waterway will be divided equally between Ontario and New York, and its distribution south of the international boundary will be New York's responsibility.

New York will have to pay part of the cost of the project. New York wants an early agreement on the total that it is to pay so that it can make adequate preparations for disposing of the power when it is available.

That is all there is to the argument. The plan for an all-American seaway that was talked of so much a few years ago—a canal linking Lake Ontario with the Hudson river—is not being heard of any more. The state and federal governments are not in disagreements about the waterway itself, but merely about one of the details incidental to its construction.

CONGRESS' RECORD.

Congress came in for rather more than its share of criticism during the session just closing. When the session is reviewed dispassionately, it is easy to see that a great deal of hard, important work was accomplished.

The "lame duck" amendment was passed and sent to the states. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was established and the home loan banking proposition was put through. A vast new tax bill was drawn up and put into operation, and a healthy slice was taken out of federal expenditures. A large-scale relief bill was voted.

To be sure, not all of the bills were passed as promptly as they might have been passed. Not all of them were faultless in construction; not all of the important work that faced Congress got accomplished. But judging things in the large, it is clear that Congress did a great deal of work, and did it, in the main, fairly capably.

THE OHIO MOUND-BUILDERS.

News that skeletons of six "mound builders" have been found in an Indian mound in Ohio is interesting, in that it gives us a new reason for hoping that more light will be shed on the mysterious race that built the middle west's astounding chain of mounds.

Probably everyone living in the middle west has seen at least one of the works of these pre-Columbian people. They are scattered all the way up and down the Ohio valley, and they lap over into the upper Mississippi basin. Serpentine mounds, rectangular enclosures, pyramidal structures—they are exceedingly abundant, extremely ancient in appearance, and deeply mysterious.

NO JOBS IN NEW YORK.

Stay at home, young woman, and don't think of going to New York to look for a job.

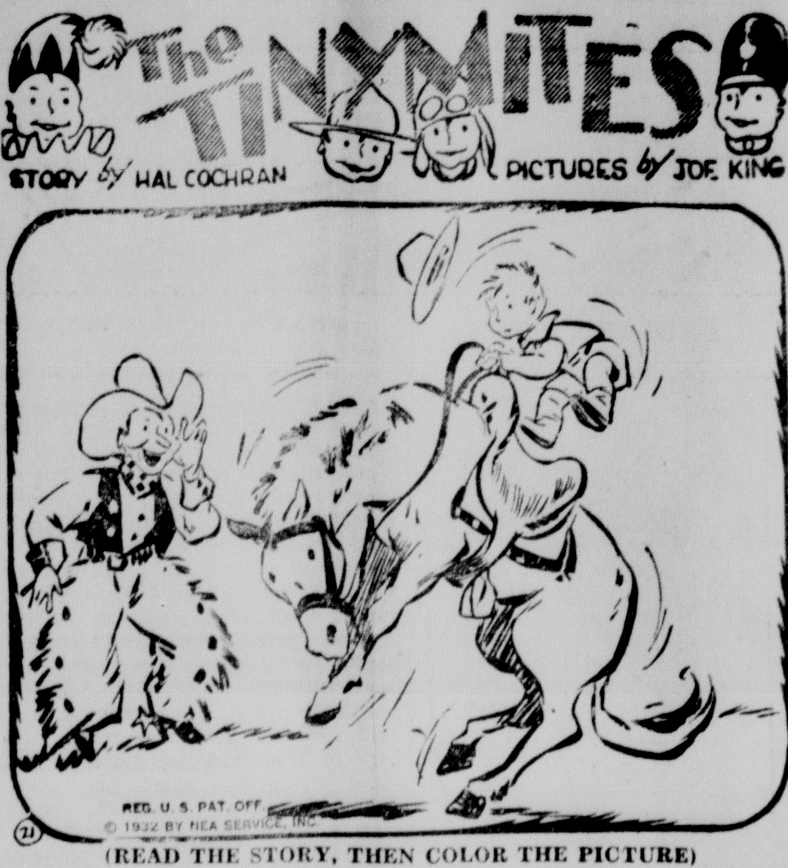

This is the warning issued by Miss Lillian D. Wald, one of New York's most noted settlement workers, in a recent radio broadcast. Miss Wald amplifies her warning as follows:

This is the time of year when people graduating from schools and colleges turn to the large cities, and especially New York, as the Mecca of their dreams. New York does provide many opportunities for the newcomer which smaller communities do not—but not now.

More and more girls, Miss Wald points out, are being stranded in New York without the funds to get back home. Any girl who has ambitious notions of going to New York to seek her fortune would do well to reconsider and wait until times get a little bit better.

If we examine what has taken place at Washington during the past 30 years or more, we cannot escape the conviction that something is going on which is structurally changing the character of our political democracy.—Clifton D. Gray, president, Bates College.

The single woman of Paris has become discriminating. And to take a husband who cannot make as much money as she would be considered stepping down.—Mlle. Jeanne Bourret, Paris business woman.

The Tines felt they'd never had such tasty food and they were glad to sit right down and eat it as wee Coppy dished it out.

"Eat all you can," the owner said. "Please don't be bashful. Go ahead!" This made the youngsters feel that he was quite a fine old scout.

"This is the finest stew that I have had," said Scouty, with a sigh. "I only wish it didn't make me feel filled up to soon."

"I've only eaten one big bowl, but can't eat more, to save my soul. If there is any left, save it until tomorrow noon."

The circus owner smiled and said, "Oh, we'll have something else instead. I hope you're not too filled up, son, to eat some peach ice cream."

Then Scouty jumped and waved his hat and said, "Oh, I'll find room for that. This dandy meal you're serving us is almost like a dream."

It wasn't very long until each Tinymite had had his fill and then tired Duncy said, "I think I'll take a little nap."

"Me, too," cried Windy. "Yes siree. Let's cuddle neath that great big tree." And when they flopped, wee Duncy put his head in Windy's lap.

They slept for 'bout an hour or so. Then Scouty jumped and shouted, "Oh! Here comes a very pretty horse. He's from the wild west tent."

"I've seen him kick his feet up high, but, even so, I'd like to try to ride on him." Then right up to the fine horse they all went.

The man who led the horse was kind. Said he, "Well, son, I do not mind if you go for a little ride. Be sure and hang on tight."

So Scouty scrambled into place. At first a smile was on his face and then the horse began to buck. This filled the lad with fright. Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc. (Duncy becomes an Indian tribe member in the next story.)

CLARA MARGARET NAYLOR

Clara Margaret Baker, daughter of Andrew and Rebecca Baker, was born November 8, 1859 at Gettysburg, Pa., and departed this life July 15, 1932, at the age of 61 years and one day. She moved to Illinois with her parents when a small child. She was united in marriage, July 11, 1891 to Perry Poisel. She lived in Illinois until 1913 when the family moved to Indiana where she has lived since that time.

To this union were born six children. One daughter died in infancy. Robert died at the age of one year. Mrs. Florence Hall died in 1923. Mrs. Fern Poisel of South Bend, Ind., George of near Fort Wayne, Ind., and Harold at home still survive, besides the aged husband, one stepson, Clifford Poisel of Dixon, Ill., Mrs. Eva Banks, a step daughter died in 1918.

Besides these she is survived by 17 grandchildren, two great grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Etta Ingram of Preppert and a great many other relatives and friends. Besides her own children she has helped raise three other families of children, namely, the three stepchildren, the stepdaughter's children and her daughter's son. She united with the M. E. church at an early age and remained a true christian her entire life. She was a faithful wife and loving mother and will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, Rev. O. D. Buck officiated and interment was in the Franklin Grove cemetery. Miss Margaret Banker rendered two lovely solos.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still;

When the cop and the innocent bystander went to peek in the front window of Henry Case's house, after they discovered a light in a building that was supposed to have been empty for three days, they saw Henry Case sitting at his dining room table with a wine glass in front of him. FIRST AND PEORIA

Cards Say Death; Murder Follows

Three days after his wife, Mrs. Vera Carl, had drawn three cards symbolic of death from the pack of a fortune teller, George Carl, Chicago grocer, was found shot to death in the rear of his store. His wife and her brother have been questioned, but the slaying remains a mystery. Top photo shows the cards drawn by Mrs. Carl: grim reaper at the left, a widow at the right and in the center a magistrate, indicating, the fortune teller said, that Mrs. Carl would come under suspicion. Mr. and Mrs. Carl are shown below.

been that he had a bullet in his brain.

All of this is from "Murder at Midnight," by R. A. J. Walling, one of the better detective stories of the summer season.

Henry Case had been dead three days; but his record was broken when the police found a secret room over a junk shop in which another dead man sat at a table. This chap, poisoned by cyanide, had been dead a week.

From this you can see that it was all very mysterious. There are a lot of innocent people who look very guilty, and there's an international dope ring to complicate matters, and it's a pretty fair puzzler.

Another one that isn't half bad is "Five Fatal Words," by Edwin Balmer and Philip Wylie.

There are six members of a rich family in this one, and a fortune of $200,000 is to go to the one who survives the other five. Naturally, this leads to a flock of murders, each preceded by a strange code message and each disguised to look like an accident.

You'll find old Miss Hannah pretty sinister, at times, and there's a Hindu who'll bear watching. And if you can figure out how Uncle What's-His-Name got electrocuted in his bath you deserve a job with Scotland Yard.

Accidents On Highway May
Show Decrease

Chicago, July 21 —(Special)—If the remainder of 1932 continues to show the decline in accidents that is apparent in the early months, total deaths will be less than in 1931 and it is probable that even motor vehicle deaths may reverse their 20-year upward march. In brief, is the substance of a section called "So Far in 1932," contained in the National Safety Council's "Accident Facts," just released.

There were 10,500 motor vehicle deaths in the first five months of this year, compared with slightly more than 11,700 in the same months of 1931, the better record for 1932 holds for each of the months from February to May. The January record alone was somewhat worse than January a year ago.

Fewer Miles Traveled

The decline in motor vehicle fatalities is probably due, says the article, in part to the decrease in miles traveled. There has been a decrease in gasoline consumption of something over ten percent.

Industrial fatalities reported by New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Illinois numbered only 1,795 in the first five months of 1932, compared with 2,264 in the same period last year. This decline of 21 per cent is due principally to the large, and perhaps increasing, number of unemployed.

A man out of work cannot be killed in an industrial accident.

"Depression" Responsible

Fatalities in railway accidents declined from 731 in the first two months of 1931 to 674 in the same period of 1932. Grade crossing fatalities showed a similar decline.

The accident trend in modern times has generally followed business. The death rate dropped from 93.8 in 1907 to 81.2 in 1908, and from 82.2 in 1918 to 72.0 in 1919. Poor business, resulting in lowered general activity, seems to mean fewer accidents. The big task of the safety movement will be to keep the accident curves moving downward after the business curves nose upward again.

HINDU BOYCOTS OF BRITISH RE- CALLED IN MEET

The Shadow Of Gandhi

By FRANK I. WELLER

Ottawa, Ont., July 21—(AP)—
The shadow of Mahatma Gandhi

the British Empire Trade Conference and its formal opening today.
During the days of conversations and published statements the stress was placed on the trade of Can-

Today it began to be remarked that, whereas Canada has a population of 10,000,000, India has 300,000,000 and the Indian delegation, represents two-thirds of the Empire's 450,000,000 people.
But for the passive resistance of Mahatma Gandhi, now silent in Yeroda jail, and his followers, it was estimated, India would be taking millions of dollars worth more of British goods than it now absorbs.

Canada Magnanimous
During the last few days the delegates, with the celebrated British strategy of compromise, paved the way for preliminary advance to their objective, Canada, transcending all others, moved magnani-mously to discard her less important industrial enterprises in the interest of British preferment.
Many observers wondered, however, if that course was so essential to keep this conference from breaking up in pious expostulations as its predecessors have done. Canada has only 10,000,000 people, it was recalled, to absorb its share of the output of Great Britain's 40-600,000 almost entirely industrially employed citizens.

Others Give and Take
Other Dominions and Crown colonies rose with assurances of willingness to give and take, but their populations, too, are in many cases small.

In the quarter ending March 31,
1930, shipments from the United Kingdom to India totaled 19,175,326 pounds sterling, normally only little less than $100,000,000. At least partially due to the boycott, this total dropped, for the quarter ending March 31, 1932, to 8,489,934 pounds sterling.

Little is heard about that at this conference where so much has been said of Canada's 10,000,000 population whittling down her $395,000-000 imports from the United States in the interest of Great Britain, which supplies only 109,000,000 of Canada's imports.

U. S. Canada's Friend
India might logically be expected to give the conference assurance of greater effort to absorb British goods, if no more than in return for British wealth invested in her development.

Canada, on the other hand, has the advantage of almost $4,000,000-000 of American funds invested in her enterprises, compared with only $2,000,000,000 of British money.
The United States took $257,000,000 worth of her exports last year compared with only $171,000,000 worth taken by the United Kingdom.

A point overlooked thus far in regard to the suggestion that Canada lean more toward British markets is the fact that declining exchange has offset the effect of a number of the American tariff schedules, notably that against feeder cattle. The tariff was between Great Britain and the Irish Free State also promises to hold out to Canada the prospect of replacing Irish cattle on the British markets.

MODERNISM'S MENACE TO BE SERMON THEME

Dr. A. I. Brown Continues Series Of Great Addresses In Dixon

Continuing his series of lectures in Assembly Park Auditorium last night, Dr. A. I. Brown again addressed a large audience which listened in rapt attention to a discussion of "Earth's Coming Age of Glory." He said in part:

"The Old Testament contains many vivid references to a Great Golden Age for the world. The New Testament tells us this will last 1000 years and will be marked by the personal reign of Christ Himself. Those who are on earth at that time will see what a terrible failure present world rulers have made of their job, largely because they have forsaken God."

"Before this Golden Age there will be terrible calamities and many celestial and terrestrial changes and wonders. Among these heavenly wonders we read that "the sun shall be turned into darkness and the moon to blood."
Prof. Lowell, the astronomer tells us that even now an immense sun thousands of times larger than our earth, is traveling at 10 miles a second towards our solar system, and apparently has got close enough to influence the orbits of Neptune and Uranus. He says that Jupiter will be affected and that it gets nearer to our solar system, it will get larger and larger appearing like another huge moon in the evening sky. If it reaches the orbit of the earth, a great celestial catastrophe could hardly be avoided as the two suns pass close to each other. Vast portions would be torn away from each other, and if the new sun passes between us and our sun, the Biblical description would be fulfilled exactly. There would be a remarkable meteoric shower as vast portions of this and other worlds are torn away. It is interesting to know that a tremendous meteoric display is promised for next year, 1933. Even now, 20,000,000 meteors visible to the naked eye, enter the earth's atmosphere daily, and are burned up by one of God's astonishing provisions for the safety of the human race.

"In the millennium the curse on the earth will be removed. There will be no more thorns, thistles nor weeds, resulting in immense fertility of the ground. There will be no wild beasts and the curse of sickness will be no more, with antidivine longevity restored so that a man will be called an infant at 100 years. There will be one universal language, thus lessening national misunderstandings and immensely adding to the happiness and comfort of mankind.
There will be a universal spring climate and no more disastrous storms. There will be no curse of because Satan will be in prison
during this period."

Dr. Brown spoke of many other interesting features and closed by reminding his audience that, in his opinion, all the signs indicate the very near approach of the Coming of Christ which precedes this period. Tonight he speaks on "The Menace of Modernism."

Names Receivers For C. A. & E. Road

Chicago, July 21—(AP)—The Chicago, Aurora & Elgin Railway, an electric interurban line that was part of the great insular empire, was placed in receivership today.
Acting upon an unopposed petition by creditors, U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson appointed Col. A. A. Sprague, Commissioner of Public Works of Chicago, and Britton I. Budd, president of the line, as receivers.

The bankruptcy petition was filed by the Standard Steel Works Company.
Budd stated that continued increase of unemployment had resulted in such a large decline in the company's traffic that the railroad, which connects Chicago with the western suburbs of Aurora, Elgin, and intervening communities, had failed to earn operating expenses for the last few months.
"not to speak of interest on its mortgages and other fixed obligations."

The company acquiesced to the receivership, Budd said, in the belief the interests of security owners could be best protected thus while maintaining service on the line.
The steel company claimed an obligation of $3,862, but set forth that the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin had defaulted on interest due July 1 amounting to $272,000 and that its outstanding indebtedness for materials, equipment, taxes, power and supplies totals more than $450,000.
Budd said gross revenues for the twelve months ended June 30 were $1,939,776, a decline of $547,409 compared with the previous year.
Two other interurban railways that were units in the Insull traction system here are the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railroad and the Chicago, South Shore & South Bend.

GARNER LIKES TO GO FISHING TO RAISE BEARD

If Any Fish are Hooked Speaker Is The Official Cook

Uvalde, Tex., July 21—(AP)— John Garner, the Democrats' vice-presidential candidate, likes to fish but he admits he goes fishing more for an excuse to camp in the creek bottoms and let his whiskers grow.
Presumably Garner, Speaker of the House of Representatives and now home on a few weeks vacation, had gone after bass today with Ross Brumfield, garageman. The Texas legislator had announced a contemplated departure at sunrise but did not name the stream.

One of the Speaker's chief diversions on these fishing trips is cooking the fish, if any are caught.
He is the official custodian of the skillet and the Dutch oven and his friends have been eating his cooking and liking it for a good many years.

Before leaving Garner said that his was strictly a private enterprise, concerning himself and Brumfield. Their destination was a secret and to keep it so, he said, he would slip back into town under cover of darkness if he needed a clean shirt or, in default of fish, another slab of bacon. Later on, he expects to go fishing with another old time friend, Whit Whittington.
Whit gave him and Mrs. Garner a three-pound bass yesterday.
Mrs. Garner stayed at home to look after business. There were so many letters and telegrams to be answered that she had to find an other secretary. The Speaker went to town yesterday and bought a

Trial Proceedings

A group of 23 citizens from the Dixon churches, assisted by the representative of the Anti-Saloon League, will present the widely hailed murder trial entitled,
"Who Killed Wright," at the Methodist Episcopal church on Monday, July 25, at 8:00 P. M. A model court room will be set up in the church. The "trial" is designed to bring out the prohibition law enforcement situation, as it progresses with the prosecution of John W. Maddex, who plays the part of the defendant, who is alleged to have killed his best friend during a drunken spree over a sixth of a pint of alcohol.

In addition to John W. Maddex representing the defendant, Rev.
Lloyd W. Walter will act as the Judge, whose court is conducted in a dignified manner. Rev. W. W.
Marshall, the wiley bootlegger, throws himself on the mercy of the court because of his war record. What will the penalty be?
James Leech is the sheriff, with C. C. Hintz, his alert deputy. Mame Schefflein assumes the responsibility of the court reporter.
Mrs. J. A. Reagan, will take the interesting part of the star witness Rev. James A. Barnett will be the coroner. Miss Callie Morgan takes the part of the pathetic figure of the defendant's mother, while Mrs. Lila Wagner takes the part of the widow of the deceased and is in court with her two children who are made orphans by this tragedy.

Rev. A. D. Shaffer, E. B. Raymond, A. E. Marth, F. M. Johnson, prosecuting attorney.

INDIANS START LATE BUT MAY GET SOMEWHERE

Cleveland Team Played Best Ball In Last Sectional Series

By HUGH FULLERTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

It is rather late in the season for the Cleveland Indians to start going somewhere in the American League—what with their being 9½ games out of first place and a full game behind the second place Philadelphia Athletics, but the results of their recent tour of the eastern sector indicate that they may make some progress.

The Indians, playing the road, outshone all rivals in both circuits in the inter-sectional series which winds up today, and with a few good breaks at home in the next week or two they stand a good chance of getting into the fight.

Three inter-sectional games today remain before the final records for the series can be compiled, but Cleveland's record of 14 victories to four defeats can't be beaten. The best other records so far are the New York Yankees' 12 victories and five defeats, the 12-7 records of the Philadelphia Athletics and Pittsburgh Pirates, both of which can be improved today, and the Chicago Cubs' 11-7 mark. And all these teams played on their home grounds.

End Trip With Win
The Red Men topped their tour yesterday by trouncing the Boston Red Sox 8 to 1 as Mel Harder gave only seven hits for his fourth triumph of the trip.

The two teams still ahead of Cleveland, the New York Yankees and the Athletics, didn't yield an inch yesterday. Johnny Allen gave the Yankees more than a full game flinging and they made of five straight over the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 2.

The Athletics pounded out an 8 to 5 victory over the St. Louis Browns for their sixth consecutive victory and the Browns' eleventh defeat, collecting 16 hits, including Mickey Cochrane's 14th homer and a double and two singles by Jimmie Fox. Washington salvaged a game out of the Detroit series after losing three and going into the second division. The Senators bunched three of their nine hits with a couple of walks and a useful fly in the sixth inning to score all their runs in a 4-1 triumph.

Pirates Beaten
Chuck Klein, was the leading figure in the National League program. His bat led the way to a 6 to 2 victory over the Pirates. Holley aided considerably with five hit pitching.

The Boston Braves, who had a day off bracketed with Cincinnati, were the only one to profit much by Pittsburgh's defeat. The second place Chicago Cubs took a 9-1 beating from the New York Giants and remained two games behind and as far ahead of Boston.

Burleigh Grimes failed to survive the fourth inning while southpaw Carl Hubbell pitched a seven hit game, made three safeties himself and allowed only one man to reach third after Woody English hit for the circuit in the first inning.

The Brooklyn Dodgers tried five pitchers and didn't find one who could throw past the St. Louis bats with any regularity. The Cards pounded all five impartially for 22 hits and a 16 to 5 victory that gave them an even break for 16 games against the east.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

In a few days a fast train will steam into Los Angeles bearing the main body of Germany's delegation to the 1932 Olympics. Let it be pronounced, here and now, that henceforth Germany is to be the favorite enemy of your Uncle Sam in the Olympic games. There are several very good reasons for this.

One is that Germany is fast recovering the man power she spent in the great war.

Another is that Germany is a nation of athletes. It has always been a country in which a sound body goes farther than a pretty face.

And still a third is that Germany, in 1936, will stage the eleventh Olympiad in Berlin, and Germans this year hope to make a showing second to none but that of their host.

TEAM NUMBERS 65
Dr. A. B. Hecht, this column's Berlin operative, informs me that Germany's contribution to the ning and getting better, says Dr. Hecht.

Hirschfeld placed third to John Kuck and Herman Brix of the United States in the 1928 Olympics. A few weeks later in England he met and defeated them both in hanging up his world record.

"Another star is the young Hamburg law student, Hans Heinrich Slevet," writes Dr. Hecht. "Slevet is perhaps Europe's second best decathlon performer. He should be able to place a good second or third in the all-round competition at Los Angeles."

AND THE GIRLS—

Not long ago Stella Walsh, the Cleveland girl sprinter who decided to accept the Polish emblem for the coming games, told me she anticipated the hardest kind of competition from the German girl athletes. "They go in for athletics more than the girls of other countries," she said.

Frau Thimm has done 12 seconds in the 100 meters. That equals world record time.

Fraulein Haux, Fraulein Birkholz and Fraulein Pirch have covered the 80-meter hurdles in 12.3 seconds. That's fancy stepping.

Sisters Fraulein Ellen and Inge Braumüller will be at Los Angeles. Ellen holds the world javelin record for women. Inge is Germany's best girl high jumper.

PORK AND PEAS—

Probably the most important post of any of the attendants to the German party is that of Herr Boch, chef of the North German Lloyd. He will see that German palates are tickled with delectable foods during the entire stay. Their favorite dish?

"Practically the same as good old American pork and beans," says Dr. Hecht. "It is pork and peas."

The countries have also made an arrangement providing for the acceptance by each country of certificates of air worthiness for aircraft exported from the other country as merchandise.

EQUIPOISE TO ACCEPT HEAVY WEIGHT IMPOST

Will Be First Time He Has Carried Such Heavy Handicap

Chicago, July 21—(AP)—Equipoise will accept his heavy assigned burden of 134 pounds in the rich Arlington Handicap Saturday.

Although the fleet son of Penant has never carried such a load, Trainer Fred Hopkins said he was confident he could do so and capture the rich stake race handily. The C. V. Whitney bread winner will be out after his eighth consecutive victory.

The Arlington Handicap will have a gross value of approximately $28,800.

In his campaign to become the biggest money winner in turf history, Equipoise has been entered in two more big stake races, the Hawthorne Gold Cup and the Hawthorne Handicap. Owner Whitney announced today. Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney has nominated St. Bri-deau for both of the $25,000 added handicaps.

"Sonny" Workman, who pilots Equipoise in the racing wars, proved himself a real money rider yesterday just when the Arlington rail birds were led to believe that Equipoise was the only horse he could win with. He gave Hilma, a flashy two-year-old filly from the Audley Stable, a beautiful ride and had her in front of a fleet field at the finish in the rich Lassie Stakes. Hilma won by a length and a half over the Wheatley Stable's Edelweiss with Swivel third. The victory netted her owner $17,900. It was her first important victory and the first for a western horse in the rich stake events at Arlington this year.

FATAL FIGHTING IN GERMANY IN SPITE OF ORDER

Republic Seethes With Inflammatory Feelings Rival Camps

Berlin, July 21—(AP)—Two men were killed and a number injured in political riots in Germany last night in spite of martial law and dictatorship.

A Communist was shot dead and a number wounded at midnight when an emergency squad fired upon a group of 300 Communists who gathered in southeastern Berlin to protest yesterday's martial law decree.

Another Communist was slain by police during a Communist-National-Socialist battle at Wiesswasser, Saxony. Several were injured in a three-cornered fight at Hamburg, in which Nazis, Communists and Reichsbannermen participated. At Buer, in the Ruhr, Nazis fired upon a group of "iron fronts." Republican supporters and seriously wounded three.

Meetings Forbidden
The new military rule prevented Communist and Nazi meetings scheduled for last night at Luckenwalde, in the province of Brandenburg.

In a speech at Bremen Adolf Hitler, Nazi leader, expressed his glee over the dictatorship established in Prussia and Brandenburg by the Von Papen government. It is high time, he said, that the Nazi government should be able to do as it pleased when it was announced that premier Braun, for eleven years head of the Prussian ministry and Karl Severing, Minister of Defense, were removed from office by the new dictatorial regime.

On the other hand, a mighty crowd, only part of which could squeeze its way into the big circus tent provided for it, cheered former Chancellor Heinrich Brüning at Munich when he departed the treatment of Severing.

Decree Called Needless
"Like no other man," Dr. Brüning said, "Severing gave fourteen years of his life for the German nation, and against Communism." Brüning branded the declaration of martial law as inspired by Hitler, as needless.

Police closed the publishing offices of the Communist newspaper "Rote Fahne" here last night. The paper yesterday published a special issue in which it urged a political mass strike in protest against the dictatorship.

Delegates of labor organizations from all over the country were summoned to meet today to consider the situation.

The general disposition seemed to be to accept the situation pending a test of the popular will in ten days.

World's Driest Region

North Chile is the driest region of which there is any record. During a twenty-one-year period Iquique had an average rainfall of 0.6 inches and Arica for a nineteen-year period had less than one-half as much. These averages do not represent normal conditions, but show that north Chile is not entirely rainless. Except a narrow belt along the Mediterranean shore, Egypt lies in an almost rainless area and in the far south very little rain falls, but it is by no means unknown and from time to time heavy storms cause sudden floods in the narrow ravines.

FLYING PATROL

Therefore, it is announced that men with flying ability will have preference in filling future vacancies.

LONG EXPECTED FIGHT ON LAKE DIVERSION'S ON

Illinois Interests Expect
Senator Otis Glenn
To Lead

By R. H. HIPPELHAUSER
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago, July 21 —(AP)— The long looked-for controversy on the deep waterways rolls in a high wash down the Illinois river. Chicago and Mississippi Valley business men and industrialists are mobilizing opposition to that clause in the St. Lawrence seaway treaty that gives the International Board jurisdiction, after 1939, over the Chicago Sanitary Canal District's diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

This canal is the vital link in the Great Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway. By October the locks and dams on the Illinois river will be completed, opening navigation. From the early days the St. Lawrence and Gulf seaways have been of predominant interest among the advocates of inland canals and waterways.

Dispute Expected
And the Mississippi river interests have long expected an ultimate dispute with the St. Lawrence proponents over the Lake Michigan diversion. There is no apparent opposition to the St. Lawrence project itself. In the past advocates of one have been the advocates of the other. Midwest business for years has foretold increased trade advantages from both.

The Gulf waterway advocates say there would be no opposition to the treaty if the diversion clause were eliminated. The thing of most importance to the Gulf waterway cities and states is the assurance of sufficient diversion from Lake Michigan in the future to maintain the required nine-foot channel down the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

Court Ordered Cut
The Supreme Court decree of 1930 ordered the Sanitary canal's diversion cut from the 6,000 cubic feet per second of today down to 1,500 by December 31, 1938.

But considerable anxiety has been evinced within recent weeks that his diversion will not meet requirements, as first expected. And it was learned from good authority today that already another survey is under way. The Supreme Court decree has been embodied into the treaty. And on this hinges the opposition. The Gulf waterway advocates believe the best chance for increasing the diversion, if the 1,500 figure is found insufficient, lies with the Supreme Court.

Officials of such organizations as the Illinois Manufacturers Association, the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Mississippi Valley Association believe the diversion question, inasmuch as Lake Michigan lies wholly within the United States, is not a problem for international settlement. On this belief, the diversion clause will be contested.

The Illinois industrialists and shippers look to Senator Otis Glenn to lead the opposition against the diversion clause in the investigation ordered by Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. James L. Donnelly, executive director of the Illinois Manufacturers Association, said that "inasmuch as other Great Lakes ports have fought this diversion on a sanitation grounds for years, two other members of the committee—LaFollette of Wisconsin and Vandenberg of Michigan—will undoubtedly favor the treaty."

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

CHATEAU-THIERRY FRED
On July 21, 1918, after one of the longest sieges of the war, French and American troops finally succeeded in driving the Germans from Chateau-Thierry and pushed across the Marne behind them to advance more than four miles.

On the Balkan front Franco-Italian forces advanced in Albania, and captured Point Ioni, on the crest of Mali Silevoz.

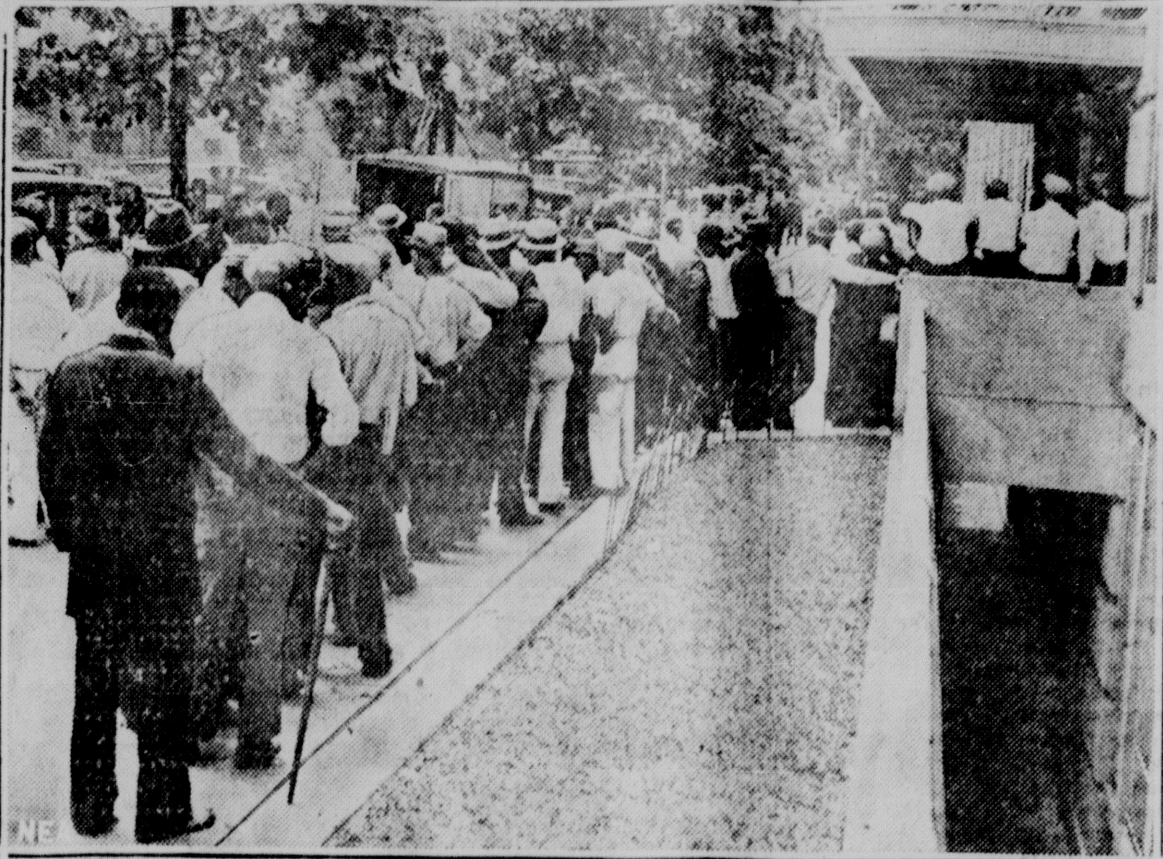

Another political blow to Austria came when the von Seidler cabinet resigned. Baron von Husarek was appointed premier.

Uncle Sam Pays Fare as Bonus Marchers Go Home

With the nation's Congressmen gone home and the last chance vanished for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, these crusading ex-service men are pictured as they lined up before the Veterans' Bureau in Washington to take advantage of the government's offer to pay their passage home. Many, it has been revealed, use these transportation funds to bring other "recruits" to the capital to swell the ranks of the bonus army.

Canal Lock To Keep Out Sea And Help Ducks

Washington —Recent completion of the $500,000 Albemarle canal lock at Great Bridge, just south of Norfolk, Va., designed to prevent salt water and industrial and municipal wastes from flowing into Currituck Sound and Back Bay, is expected to bring back one of the outstanding wintering grounds for wild fowl on the continent and what was formerly a famous black bass producing area. Removal of the old lock and deepening of the channel for vessels 14 years ago allowed salt water and pollution discharged from Norfolk, Hampton Roads, Newport News and other points to kill the vegetation which attracted wild fowl, and to make the area practically worthless for fishing.

There is no now reason why vegetation should not come back and cause this huge area of 300 square miles to take its rightful place again as a veritable heaven for waterfowl and valuable fishes, chiefly the black bass, according to Seth Gordon, president of the American Game Association. This organization and the Izaak Walton League of America worked for some years with a number of local groups to have the lock replaced.

When Congress in 1930 authorized an appropriation of $500,000 for construction of the lock, public spirited citizens and property owners of the section at once advanced the funds to hurry the work. The inland waterways system intended to help the area left it a wasteland and destroyed its chief money-making industry—the recreational pursuits of wildfowling and angling.

DAILY HEALTH

THE SIZE OF BABIES

The weight of the average normal child at the time of birth is seven and a quarter pounds. Occasionally, however, babies are born weighing as much as 20 pounds or as little as one and a half pounds. Infant boys are ordinarily three ounces heavier than girls.

Negro infants are on an average seven ounces lighter in weight than white children.

The average range in the weight of full-term children is from five to 11 pounds. Those that are below this weight, particularly if they fall within the limits of three to five pounds, are definitely premature.

Statements on the exceptional weight of infants at birth, those ranging above 11 pounds or under 3, must in most instances be accepted with a certain amount of mental reservation.

In the records of one clinic where the weight of 15,000 infants was carefully recorded, there was but one case of a child weighing at birth 14 1/2 pounds.

The size of the infant tends to increase with the age of the mother up to the twenty-eighth or thirtieth year of life.

The size of the child also depends to a considerable extent upon that of the parents, especially the father.

In most instances the child is head closely resembles that of the father in shape and size.

The weight of the infant at birth also is affected by the social and economic position of the mother and the comforts by which she is surrounded. Heavier children are more common in the upper levels of economic and social life.

Though there are a few instances on record in which premature children weighing as little as two pounds have been successfully raised, by far the larger number of those weighing less than three and a half pounds at the time of birth succumb soon after delivery.

Such premature infants evidently lack the resistance necessary to survive.

Mexicans Have An Unusual Air Code

Mexico City, July 20 —(AP)— Pan-American Airways officials here today were informed Clarence McElroy, the American flier who was lost in the jungle of southern Mexico for nearly three weeks, had been arrested in the town of San Geronimo where he is recovering from the effects of his experience.

The charge, it is said, involves the death of Roy Gordon, an American of Tegucigalpa, Honduras. Gordon was killed when the plane in which both were flying to Tegucigalpa crashed in the thick jungle.

When he was found nineteen days later McElroy was on the verge of starvation. He told his rescuers that Gordon's body was under the wreckage of the plane where he had placed it to protect it from wild beasts and the weather.

McGRAW RECALLS MOST DRAMATIC PLAY OF CAREER

It Came On Forbes Field In Pittsburgh During Hard Storm

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, July 21—(AP)—It was late in the National League campaign of 1912 and the Giants, led by a swashbuckling, fighting fury named John McGraw, were locked in a bitter stretch duel for the pennant with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

They warred through a final crucial series in Pittsburgh and the Giants came down to the ninth inning of this final game leading by a single run. Victory there meant enough margin to nurse through the final dash to the flag. Then something went wrong.

The Pirates rallied, filled the bases. Two were out. A storm was sweeping in over Forbes Field. It was getting dark. Christy Mathewson fiddled in the pitcher's box and waited, tired, for the help of the storm and the gloom that would make his faded arm a phantom bit of horseshoe shipping past the knees of the final batter.

The wind was whipping in across the outfield, and as Matty took one last look behind him he could scarcely see his outfielders against the storm clouds swooping down. He wound up. The batter lunged. He met the ball, a screaming liner that flashed to the right of second base and out toward the darkness of right center.

Runners On Go
"The runners on those bases poured for the plate," said John McGraw as he sat back in his chair in the Giants' business office reminiscing. "Matty's head dropped and he turned his back. I started to turn away."

"Suddenly there came the terrific crash of the first bolt of lightning as the storm broke full on. For the brief flash of a second it lit up the field, and there outlined against the zig-zag flame, his face contorted, leaping high into the air, was our right fielder, Red Murray, the ball just setting into his glove."

And that, stilled John McGraw, was the greatest and most dramatic play he ever saw on a baseball diamond.

Wandering back over the years with the most colorful leader in baseball history, you feel nothing but wonder that the white-haired, gentlemanly, soft-spoken man of 60 who sits so contentedly in the business offices now could have generated in his hey-day the turbulence and lust of battle for which he was famous.

Was Umpire Batter
When a decision was close, and the umpire hesitated or ruled against him, there would come that human bolt from the bench, McGraw. Out of the dugout would pour the bench-warmer, a phalanx about him, while his warriors stormed in from the field to shout at his side.

But he knew how to avoid banishment, and the threat of suspension, while creating the impression that murder was about to be done, "Don't let them disturb you," he'd shout to the umpire, his arms waving frantically, stirring the fans into an uproar. "Let's get this game over. I want my supper."

The joy of winning that dominated him up to the time he stepped out of a uniform in 1922 and managed the Giants from the bench in civilian clothes was never shown more clearly than in an incident that occurred one evening as the Giants were pulling out of Cincinnati after a particularly red-hot series. The Giants and the Reds were bitter enemies, and in those days every fan in Cincinnati seemed endowed at birth with a particular and lifelong hatred of McGraw and the Giants.

The train stopped at a tiny station just outside the city and McGraw, in an expansive mood with his ball players around him, spied a farmer sitting dolorously on a fence chewing at a straw, some intuitive sense seemed to tell the pilot that there was a denizen of the section he could make uncomfortable.

He leaned out of the window. "Who won the ball game today?" he yelled.

The farmer turned a lugubrious face and spat once.

"Reds lost," he mumbled.

McGraw's scream of delight could be heard almost to Cincinnati.

FEUD MAY RUIN U. S. CHANCES IN MID-DISTANCES

Rivalry Between Carr And Eastman Likely To Be Costly

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sport Writer

Los Angeles, July 21—(AP)—Since the final American track and field tryouts, where Uncle Sam put his two prize middle distance eggs in the same basket it has become clear again that this country will have difficulty trying to win any foot-racing honors over 400-meters.

It took some extraordinary measures, plus the rare fighting spirit of Ray Barbuti, to put over a single winner on the Olympic track for years ago. The chance this year to distribute our middle distance talent to the best advantage was "blown" when the feud sprang up over the rival merits of Bill Carr and Ben Eastman.

Until Carr came all the way across the country to explode the myth of Eastman's invincibility, the supposition was that Big Ben could be counted on to clean up the Olympic 400 and 800. His defeat, instead of convincing his admirers of the obvious—that he is better fitted for the longer distance—led to his coach's insistence upon a return duel. Not only was this lost, in another record race with Carr, but Eastman was lost to the 800 lineup and both will fight it out again in the 400 here.

Carr Has Indian Sign
Eastman's chances to turn the tables will be better on the Olympic track, where the 400 will be run in lanes. The evidence so far, however, is that the Pennsylvania star has the "Indian sign" on his Stanford rival.

Carr has never been beaten at 400 meters or 440 yards. Until he whipped Eastman, however, he was best known as a member of Penn's crack mile relay team. Until this spring he had an idea he would be better off in the broad jump. Similarly, Eastman, since reaching his best college stride, has never been beaten at 880 yards or 800 meters, though he can romp most any route briskly.

The two foreigners most likely to extend Carr and Eastman in the Olympic 400 are Alex Wilson of Canada, known to competition in this country as a representative of Notre Dame, and Lieutenant G. L. Ramping of England. Wilson's teammate the veteran Jimmy Ball just failed to nip Barbuti at the tape in the Olympic final four years ago and will have to be watched, too.

American Hopes
With Eastman out of the 800, the United States pins its hopes on the national half-mile champion, Eddie Gunning of Seattle, Charles Hornbostel of Indiana, and Edwin Turner, Jr., of the University of Michigan. Gunung is the most experienced, but none so rugged. It will take all his stamina to retain a racing peak over three successive days of Olympic competition. Hornbostel is a recent development, comparatively, but has shown endurance as well as speed.

Tom Hampson, the British star; Phil Edwards of Canada, and Sera Martin of France, holder of the world 800-meter record figure to give our boy all they can handle. All are seasoned campaigners.

The United States advanced a step to second place in 1931 as a supplier of foodstuffs to Germany.

White Sox Will Be Wrecked This Fall

Chicago, July 21—(AP)—All worn out and discarded in their fight to cut a figure in the 1932 American League race, Chicago's White Sox have decided to wreck and rebuild for next season.

Manager Lew Fonseca already has started out on one of many shopping trips in the minor leagues and will spend much of his time during the rest of the season hunting "ivory" and experimenting with his purchases.

One of his first wrecking acts came yesterday with the outright release of Cecil Pat Caraway to Ray Schalk's Buffalo club of the International League. The deal was expected to place the White Sox in position to lay first claim on Carnegie, Buffalo's heavy hitting outfielder. Caraway, an elongated southpaw, pitched three seasons for the White Sox but failed to help out except for a flurry of victories in 1930.

Natives of 25 states and five foreign countries are found in Kentucky's state prison.

The United States advanced a step to second place in 1931 as a supplier of foodstuffs to Germany.

YOUNG STILLMAN HURT IN CRACK-UP IN INDIANA

His Mother And Her Husband Also Crash Flying To Him

Chicago, July 21—(AP)—Alexander Stillman, 22-year-old scion of the wealthy New York family, suffered slight injuries last night when the plane he was piloting crashed in a forced landing on the outskirts of Gary, Ind.

Shortly afterward his mother, Mrs. Fowler McCormick of Chicago, and her husband escaped unhurt when a plane in which they were hurrying to his side in a Gary hospital nosed over in landing at Lansing, Ill. airport, a few miles distant.

After his accident, young Stillman limped across fields to the highway and was carried to Gary by Frank Essemister, a contact of that place who at first mistook him for a robber.

At the hospital young Stillman's injuries were treated and his mother notified. He suffered cuts about the face and head. An x-ray examination was to be made later to determine if there were more serious injuries.

Mrs. McCormick and her husband chartered a plane in which to fly to Gary but, when they found the field would not be lighted, headed for the Lansing port. Their plane nosed over when the pilot misjudged the limits of the landing field and landed in a garden plot near by. The McCormicks and the couple went on by cab to the hospital.

WORLD WAR BY "YARNS" LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

"Decorated"

How was the king of Montenegro to know that the consuming passion of Americans in Paris, and on other fronts, after the armistice was the collection of medals?

Anyway, an American medical major attached to the military police of Rue Ste. Anne spawned the idea that his private collection could be materially enhanced if only the king would cooperate. So he went into conference with a Russian colonel, aide-de-camp to the Montenegrin monarch. The result was that the king ended one of his daily drives through the Bois at the prison near Long-champs.

Lieut. Albert Mackey of Detroit but then of the Two Hundred and Sixty-third M. P. corps, tells the story of what happened at the stockade.

"It chanced that we were changing guards when the king arrived," swears Lieutenant Mackey. "The old and new guards were drawn up with the prisoners paraded between. It made a great impression on the king."

A brother officer presented the king with an American box of shotgun; I handed him a box of buckshot shells to use in it. The king enjoyed the reception tremendously and shortly after issued orders we were to be decorated.

"There was a lot to pay, since the major's carefully laid designs had become public. However, a compromise was effected. The major and an officer who had just arrived from the States were made officers of the Legion of Honor of Montenegro. The officer who'd disposed of the shotgun, and I, became chevaliers."

How Melting Ice Would Affect Ocean's Levels

If all the ice in Greenland and Antarctica should melt, enough water would be added to the oceans to raise their levels 150 feet, according to Dr. W. J. Humphreys of the weather bureau. This, of course, would include the world's largest and richest cities.

How fast the mile-thick ice packed down in the frozen North will melt cannot be foretold. Once melting starts, Doctor Humphreys says, it is likely to go forward rapidly, unless the equilibrium of the earth's crust is restored by some unusual occurrence, such as a number of volcanic eruptions, which would cause a heavy snowfall and thus protect the ice from the sun's rays.

Geologists do know, however, that there have been times when Greenland did not have much ice. Such times, Doctor Humphreys points out, may come again. About 1000 A. D. the Danes settled in parts of Greenland that later were glaciated and still later melted again. In the fourteen hundreds there was a marked advance in ice in that area.

Meteorologists know also that there has been a distinct retreat of ice through the last 50 years. From the 12,000,000 square miles of ice present at the time of the maximum of the last glaciation, the world's supply has diminished to 6,000,000 square miles, most of it in Antarctica, which is nearly as large as the United States, and Greenland, which is 18 times the size of Pennsylvania.

Mistaken Identity

An elderly man rushed angrily into the radio broadcasting office, and demanded to see the manager.

"I just heard your program mentioning my name," said he. "and I don't like what you said about my whiskers." Smoothing the luxuriant growth pompously.

"Why, sir," apologized the manager, "we meant no harm to referring to your 'Biblical' whiskers."

"Oh!" exclaimed the injured patriarch, "I thought you said 'billy goat' whiskers."

IN BEST HEALTH IN MANY YEARS; LAUDS GLY-CAS

Neuritis Had Caused Her to Be Confined to Bed at Times, Nervous Indigestion Added to Miserable Condition.

"Gly-Cas gave me new health," said Mrs. S. B. Williams, 1206 McCloud St., Muskogee, Okla. "My stomach had been disordered since a child, bothered with nervous indigestion, food soured after eating. Neuritis settled over my body and confined me to bed at times, had to be turned, endured terrible pain. I tried all kinds of medicines but gave Gly-Cas a trial, as it had done so much for my husband, and I too found it too just the medicine I had needed for years. Gly-Cas easily regulated my stomach and bowels and relieved me of that terrible neuritis and I can honestly say Gly-Cas is one medicine with real merit. It has restored me to the best health I have had in many years."

Gly-Cas is sold by Campbell's White Cross Pharmacy, Dixon, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA MORAN who supports her mother, invalid father, little sister, KITTY, and ne'er-do-well brother, RUD, determines to marry for wealth and position. She is receptionist for a Wall Street law firm and in the office sees men of the world to which she aspires.

Mona's friend, LOTTIE, GARR, fashion model at Pilgrim's exclusive shop, thinks Mona is foolish to work in an office when she could have a job as a model or go on the stage. Formerly Mona was employed at Pilgrim's. She prefers the office because she considers it a sounder route to advancement.

As she is leaving the Third Avenue station one morning, Mona's brother surprises her with the announcement that STEVE SACCARRELLI, her childhood sweetheart, grandson of the coal and ice dealer, has returned home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II
 MONA made her way down the three flights of dreary stairs. The Morans lived as high above the street as the house afforded so that KITTY would get better air. As Mona dodged empty milk bottles and stepped over garbage cans into the gasoline laden street her heart was beating tumultuously.

Steve Saccarelli back! Back from where—and for what?

She remembered Steve so well though in the three years of his absence the neighborhood, rife with other gossip, had discarded him. The girl smiled a little forlornly. The sight of him would soon revive much of the old gossip. Gossip about Steve and about Mona, too.

Mona had been Minnie then. Steve was the grandson of Tony, the coal and ice man around on Third Avenue. Olive-skinned, subtle of expression and intent, lean, imbued with charm and graciousness.

It amused Mona to recall that once she had been thrilled by Steve. Steve Saccarelli, the bad boy of the 60's, later a helper in his grandfather's business, and then a taxi driver!

Taxi driving was a respected occupation in their neighborhood. It paid good money and a man was his own boss. However, the neighbors suspected Steve. Too many of these taxi chauffeurs were gangsters and suddenly swooping down on Minnie as she returned from the shop one evening, Steve had drawn his cab near the curb, talked a moment and then disappeared. There were accounts of a jewel robbery in the newspapers next day. Steve vanished. No one ever had seen him again.

NOBODY even heard of him except Tony who relayed the word to Steve's mother, unable either to read or write. Tony, the ice and coal man, coming up from his cellar like a protesting gnome, insisted that the boy was "okay."

Away, yes, but okay. Steve sent much money home to them through a lawyer.

For the sophisticates that settled in, Steve was in prison, "taking the rap" for someone higher up who was sending money to Tony until Steve could get out and take care of the family.

The three years that followed had

Steve drew the low-slung car along the curb skillfully.

changed Mona but her feeling toward Steve had not changed. She believed in him as fond of him. Now Steve was back. What would that mean to her? What would it mean to him, perhaps, if he came back expecting to find Mona as she had been three years before? Little drives on hot nights in his battered old car. Trips to Coney. Dancing on an excursion boat as it nosed coastwise toward Atlantic Highlands. Movies. Dancing at Rose-land.

Now she hurried toward the elevated railroad, wondering when she would see Steve, unaware that fate had decided on the moment.

"Minnie!" a voice called behind her. "Minnie, it's you, isn't it? What luck!"

It was Steve. He drew the low-slung car along the curb skillfully and, hat in hand, swung out on the street, his fine teeth gleaming in his olive face, his dark eyes dancing with delight.

The old Steve and yet a new Steve. Grinning. Tanned. Suave. Changed, too. A Steve who had taken on somehow the manner of that world to which Mona, at her work in the Wall Street law office, daily aspired.

"Minnie! Gee, it's great to find you!"

"Steve!"

THE blood rushed to her face, then receded as the young man's admiring eyes traveled from the brim of her smart little hat to her shoes. Steve could see the change in her, too, Mona knew. A change as important, as subtle as the change that had come over him.

"I've thought about you a hundred times, Min. The first thing I did after I got back was look for you. But to ask about you." Steve grinned again. "I found him in the second poolroom."

"You might have telephoned."

"Well, I did. But your mother answered and I pretended I had the wrong number. I knew she didn't like me and I didn't want to run the chance of losing you."

"As if Mother could have kept your call a secret!"

"Then," Steve went on, his hand still closed about Mona's, "I hung around the subway and the elevated, hoping to waylay you on the way back from work. 'Sure she rides home in the boss' car,' Pat, the newsie, told me just to tease me. It's good to see you, Mona! Aren't you the early bird, though?"

"You are up early yourself, Steve."

He leaned down toward her ear, regarded it admiringly, then whispered with mock secrecy.

"I'm not up this early. I'm up this late! Haven't been to bed yet." With the gesture of a detective flashing his badge, Steve pulled back his topcoat. He was wearing evening attire which to Mona's practiced eye spelled perfection.

"Well, high life—or whatever the clothes implied—was certainly becoming to Steve. Whatever had brought it about sat easily on his conscience, too. Never had she seen him so sure of himself, so worldly wise. If Steve had consorted with crooks they must certainly be gentlemen."

"I'll take you down to your ofnee." Steve suggested after the first excitement of their meeting disappeared.

Mona climbed into the seat and Steve jumping in beside her. He started the car with a low, almost imperceptible purr.

"Where have you been, Steve?" she asked without parody as they threaded the elevated posts on Third Avenue. "You weren't—you weren't—"

"In jail!" He turned and regarded her profile seriously. "No! And nothing like that, Min! You know—well, maybe I was mixed up in something but I fooled 'em."

"Fooled who? The cops?"

"Harder than that, Min. I fooled the gang." He paused as if about to take her into his confidence, then abruptly decided otherwise.

STEVE laid a hand over her small gloved one and tightened his grasp as he continued.

"You mustn't worry about me. You've heard a lot of lies about me since I've been gone. Maybe some of 'em were true! Everything I've got, Min, today is straight money. I've gone straight—did it before I really went crooked! Let's of guys who are in rackets would like to pull out but they can't. Maybe I couldn't—but I did! They were sore at me for a while but it all blew over."

"They can't?"

"Can't what? Get me? Min, they can get anyone, as far as that goes. Their bullets don't care who they bump off. But the chances are they won't go after me. They aren't afraid I'll spill anything to the cops. It was all spilled long ago—and plenty! I watched the papers. And I didn't have very much on them, anyhow. They saw to that."

"You talk like a movie."

"Then let's talk about something else." There was a pause and Mona noticed that the greeting of the traffic policeman at the intersection of Third and the Bowery as they passed was warm and hearty. She saw admiration for Steve's car in the policeman's face.

They drew up before the door of the building in which Mona worked. "Just under the wire, Min—glancing at his watch—or don't you punch time clocks these days?"

"Just under the wire is right."

She smiled her thanks as he assisted her to the curb.

"Dine with me tonight, Min?"

She considered. "I'd love to Steve but this is my night to visit Dad. He's in the hospital now, you know."

Their eyes met. Steve drew in a sympathetic whistle.

"There may be hope—" Min went on.

For a moment there was silence. Then Steve broke it briskly. "Tell you what, Min. I'll call for you and drive you to see your Dad. Then I'll take you home and call for you later. You need cheering up. We'll see the town."

She considered this briefly. "That will be fine, Steve."

She watched him as he vaulted over the low door and the car began sliding from the curb.

"It's a date, Min! I'll be here. Five sharp."

Wealthy Widow Is Found Beaten Dead

Chicago, July 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine Lentis, 67-year-old wealthy widow, was found beaten to death in her apartment today, apparently by robbers.

Suspicious because of a letter written in German by the husband of Mrs. Lentis' maid, the police began a search for the girl, Catherine Fisher and her husband who disappeared yesterday.

The letter directed to a neighbor and signed by "T. Fisher," read in part: "Go to the building next door through basement. We only intended to borrow the money."

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE DELIVERANCE AT THE RED SEA

HERE, FOR INSTANCE, IN THIS STORY OF THE PASSING OF THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL THROUGH THE RED SEA WE HAVE A GREAT DRAMA THAT LAYS HOLD OF THE SOUL.

For others, the matter is not so simple. They see in the Bible not only a book, but a book of many books, coming to us through a long and rather difficult historical process in which many conflicting views and judgments have participated.

The inspiration of the Bible, they find, in its distinctive general teaching and in its guidance for life rather than in any mechanical conception of its accuracy of detail in every particular, or perhaps one should say the historicity of every detail.

In the early history of England we have such stories as that of King Canute putting his chair on the seashore and bidding the incoming tide to recede. The purpose and effect of that story, and its valuable lesson, are, of course, quite apparent, and have nothing to do with the question whether Canute did actually put his chair upon the shore or not.

In the same way the spiritual teachings of the Bible depend only in a very secondary way upon critical questions and the attitude that one assumes toward them.

In these comments on the Sunday School lessons it is neither possible, nor desirable, to enter into these critical questions. Our quest and our emphasis are upon spiritual teaching.

Here for instance, in this story of the passing of the children of Israel through the Red Sea, and the destruction by the returning waters of the pursuing hosts of Egypt, we have a great drama that lays hold of the soul as well as of the artistic mind.

It is an epic of deliverance, full of meaning and of inspiration for people to whom the Red Sea represents a barrier, but also a gateway to the Promised Land which they are enabled to conquer through Divine Providence.

The experience is one that is not limited to the history of Israel. There are those even in our modern days of distress and trouble who are finding the experience is real, and it is this that gives up hope that society itself may pass through the waters of depression and to the promised land of safety and deliverance.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Everybody gets the same answer "on the hill" when asking the whereabouts of Tom Walsh of Montana.

He left Chicago for home. And he's not coming back unless they call him.

The statement, which his office in Washington puts out, sums up well what Walsh went through as presiding officer of the Democratic national convention. But only those who watched him in action at the Chicago Stadium for those six gruelling days can really appreciate his desire to get back to Montana and rest.

There are those who will tell you that the stern, solemn, gray-haired Senator did a better job of presiding at Chicago than he did at Madison Square Garden in 1924. It is true that it was the rarest of occasions that his pounding of either the big gavel made of 48 different pieces of wood or the small mallet made of Arizona copper failed to bring order out of that milling and restless mob on the convention floor.

FAILED ONLY ONCE—There comes to mind only one instance where he failed. It was the memorable night that William G. McAdoo took the platform to announce the switch of California from the Garner standard to that of Roosevelt.

But probably no chairman could have obtained order then. The crowded galleries were out of booming and catcalls and there was no stopping them. Not even Mayor Cermak's fervent plea that the reputation of Chicago as a host was at stake could wholly stop them. It was only McAdoo's determination to proceed at any cost that finally wore them down.

WALSH THE BOSS

With Representative Cannon of Missouri, the convention parliamentarian, at his elbow to keep him straight on the parliamentary track, and the broad shoulders of Ed Halsey, the Sergeant-at-Arms, in the background to enforce his orders if necessary, Walsh determinedly pushed on.

There was never any doubt as to who was boss while the convention was in session.

Strange Tree Orders

Orders for trees sent the Pennsylvania state department of forests and waters showed some unusual coincidences in names. John Oakleaf applied to the department for pine tree seedlings; while John Acorn of Venango county sought spruce seedlings for plantings in Cherry Tree township. The town of Falling Timber made application for tree seedlings, as did Hickory township in Forest county. Trees were shipped such places as Pine Grove, Woodside, Spruce Hill, Rockwood, Fleetwood, Beech Creek, Locust Gap, Driftwood, Cherry Tree and Forest City—Indianapolis News.
